

Seeing is Believing ... Live Web Demo's

A real time information experience

What is a Web Demo?

An online web conference is a state-of-the-art meeting experience at your desktop. With just a browser and a phone, you can experience a highly dynamic online meeting that supports the converged delivery of voice, video and data. Real-time Web communications for real-time information delivery.

What does this really mean?

- See a software solution in action without leaving your desk.
- Immediately see how your questions and concerns can be answered
- No downloading or installing special software
- No travel expenses
- Face-to-face quality meetings at multiple locations
- Efficient training scenario for small groups of users

Who is using Web Demo's?

Open Archive partners use Open Archive expertise to demonstrate ehive document management solutions to their qualified clients. Their customer gets their questions answered and our partner is confident that the solution he is providing is the right one for the customer!

Both new and existing clients use Open Archive web training to increase productivity. It is perfect for new employees who need to come up to speed, for existing staff who might need a refresher, or for users who want to take their expertise to a new level.

How Open Archive Uses Web Demo's

Training Save a considerable amount of money and time by taking advantage of online web training. Up to three remote or local connections can be online at the same time. We customize the syllabus to ensure that the training meets your business needs and the skill level of the attendees. All this without incurring any travel expenses!

Product Demonstrations Not sure if our document and drawing management solutions will completely meet your needs? Let us answer your questions and demonstrate solutions to your business problems. You will see the software in action and be confident that your problems will be solved.

Selling Solutions to Co-workers & Upper Management Need to show others in your organization how the solution works? We'll be glad to demonstrate a solution at up to three remote locations. But feel free to gather as many people as you want around your desk so they don't miss the demo!
